Nine from Aberdeen By Jeffrey M. Leatherwood

In Tunisia with II Corps, Lt. John Randall locates a downed German plane and demolishes two live bombs still mounted on the wreckage ...In Italy, Capt. Ronald Felton's team contends with dreaded "Butterfly Bombs" left behind to menace the US 5th Army ...Landing with the 6th US Special Engineers Brigade, Capt. Jesse Donovan's squad braves deadly 88mm shells in pursuit of enemy rockets on Utah Beach ...Serving with the 9th Army Air Force in France, Capt. Thomas Reece survives a close encounter with a German landmine ...Capt. Joseph Pilcher joins in the 78th Infantry's final assault on a dam guarding the approaches to Germany ...Sweeping the 11th Airborne Division's trail on Luzon, Lt. Carl Cirocco's team is ambushed by the Japanese ...Capt. Richard Metress is dispatched to tackle enemy depth charges for the 19th Infantry Regiment on Mandog Hill ...Capt. Clifford Sarauw covers the US 10th Army's fateful landing on Okinawa ...These aforementioned exploits are among the notable events contained in Nine from Aberdeen, the first academic history solely devoted to the US Army's Ordnance Bomb Disposal Branch from World War II. Shortly after Pearl Harbor, nine US Army officers and sergeants were sent from Aberdeen Proving Ground to war-torn England in order to learn the invaluable technical skills pioneered by the British Royal Engineers. Led by the colorful Thomas J. Kane, these nine men inaugurated the new Ordnance Bomb Disposal School. Conceived initially for homeland defense, Col. Kane's branch eventually fielded over two hundred Army and Air Force bomb squads for overseas service. These courageous officers and men were forerunners of today's Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD) specialists, responsible for supporting the US military during combat operations and for preserving the lives of noncombatants at all other times. Using documents and photographs - many from personal collections - as well as oral interviews, this work presents a cross-section of US Army and Air Force operations spanning three major theaters: Mediterranean, European, and the Pacific. Special emphasis is given to the European Theater, where Col. Kane served as Gen. Eisenhower's chief ETO bomb disposal officer. Nine from Aberdeen also contains charts detailing campaign participations, ordnance statistics, and other significant data. Command Sergeant Major James H. Clifford (Retired), military consultant for the award-winning film, The Hurt Locker, provides an afterword on the continuity of modern EOD.

Editorial Review

From the Author

"This book, ten years in the writing, is chiefly dedicated to Col. Thomas J. Kane, who went on to pioneer our modern EOD service branch. Over the years, I had the privilege of interviewing a cross-section of his veteran officers and enlisted men, some of whom are no longer with us. However, their personal memories, combined with many primary documents and pictures from private and institutional archives, provide the bedrock of my narrative. If you enjoy scholarly yet accessible military history, and would like to learn about some of World War II's unsung heroes, then 'Nine from Aberdeen' might be the right book for you. I would also like to add that this paperback edition contains many new photographs from EOD sources, plus a few new insights."
